Children, Youth and Environments* is now online!

With the launch of its first issue, Children, Youth and Environments (CYE) brings free access to the latest peer-reviewed research on environments for young people right to your computer.

This long-awaited redevelopment of the print journal, Children's Environments, offers a new, high-quality outlet for refereed articles on children and youth around the world. Guided by a distinguished international panel of editorial advisors, CYE targets a global and multidisciplinary audience.

CYE publishes research from the social sciences, the design professions, the humanities, education and other relevant disciplines. Articles cover varied topics and approaches, including quantitative and qualitative empirical research; theoretical, methodological and historical investigations; critical literature reviews; design analyses; post-occupancy evaluations; pedagogical critiques; policy studies; and program assessments. We welcome papers from diverse viewpoints and different cultures.
